High Schells Wilderness in Nevada

High Schells Wilderness is a huge, wild mountain area in eastern Nevada filled with forests, animals, and super tall peaks. It's a great place for kids who love nature, hiking, and spotting wildlife.

1. It's really big

- The wilderness covers 121,497 acres, which is bigger than 90,000 football fields!

2. It has one of Nevada's tallest mountains

- North Schell Peak rises to 11,883 feet, making it one of the highest mountains in the state.

3. Elk love living here

- The area is home to Nevada's largest elk herd, so kids might spot these giant, antlered animals.

4. The land is full of different trees

- You can find aspen, spruce, limber pine, and even ancient bristlecone pines—some of the oldest trees on Earth.

5. The mountains were shaped by glaciers

- Long ago, ice carved out deep canyons and cliffs, giving the wilderness its dramatic, rocky look.
